ONE WARRING CONGRESSMAN SUBMISSION BETWEEN TWO STOOLS.

A Strong Probability that He Will Have to Run Off the Track or Else Resign the Chairmanship—Delaney Refuses to Run Under Either Name—Democratic Committee Meets Again.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—The Democratic Congressional Committee will meet at the Hoffman Hotel, Baltimore, at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, and it is probable that the question of the withdrawal of Delaney, who is running for Congress in the Second Maryland District, as the Democratic candidate against Wellington, the Republican nominee, will be considered. Delaney has been nominated by the Democrats and by the Republican Sound Money Democrats, and he has accepted both nominations. He has been informed by the Democratic committee that he must withdraw from one ticket or the other, and he has replied that he will not withdraw from either. He says that he will run on both tickets or on neither. He has been informed by the Democratic committee that if he runs on the Republican ticket he will be considered a bolter, and will be treated as such. Compare . . . . . Qualities and Prices.

We propose to let you know thoroughly about our business principles and our dependable make of clothing, and get your good will.

Do not be afraid to ask questions—all you choose—about the goods. Our guarantee goes with every garment, and you could buy safely with your eyes shut; but ask questions all you choose.

Our extraordinary advantages as manufacturers, the honest methods and generous policy of the house, and our twenty-five years' experience, are at your service from beginning to end.

The stock of Clothing is of our own make, made for this season's business, and is substantial and stylish in every particular; and we don't deal in shoddy clothing at any price. Don't suppose quality lacking because of low prices.

The question of qualities and prices we settle by a frank free statement of all we know about the goods, and charging the least, and less than corresponding quality can be bought at.

On that basis we build and expect to win your confidence.
